

Assistant Professor in Youth Services for 2013-14.

Queens College, City University of New York, Graduate School of Library and Information Studies (GSLIS) invites applications and nominations for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in the area of Youth Services. GSLIS is the only publicly supported American Library Association accredited school of library and information studies in the metropolitan New York City area.

The GSLIS currently has 12 full-time faculty and offers a broad curriculum. In addition to its M.L.S. degree it offers a 30 credit Certificate of Post-Masters Studies in Librarianship, a 15 credit Certificate in Archives and Preservation, a 12 credit Certificate in Children's and Young Adult Services in Public Libraries, and three programs for the preparation of New York State certified School Library Media Specialists. The GSLIS has a large (350+) and highly diverse student body, only 10% of whom are full-time.

Candidates for this position must hold a Ph.D. in library/information science or a related field or the equivalent_ with preference given to those applicants with at least one earned graduate degree in library/information science and/or experience with public library youth services.

The successful candidate will have a demonstrated record or potential for teaching, research, and service at the graduate level to merit appointment at the City University of New York, experience in library/information science education, and excellent communication skills. Preference will be given the candidate with expertise in both traditional and current children and young adult fiction and nonfiction materials, both in print and other formats; including but not limited to, picture books, media, graphic novels, and games

Applications should be addressed to www.cuny.edu; click Employment; click Search job listings; Faculty; and locate job # 6972. Applications must be submitted online.

Send questions to James.Marcum@qc.cuny.edu,

.

Assistant Professor in Information Science – Fall 2014

Queens College, City University of New York, Graduate School of Library and Information Studies (GSLIS) invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in the area of Information Science. Qualified candidates are sought with research and teaching expertise as well as applied knowledge in two of the following areas:

Data Management and Curation

Content Management Systems

Information/Systems Architecture

Usability

Metadata

PhD in library/information science or a related field at the time of appointment. An earned graduate degree in library science is required. Preference will be given to applicants who have familiarity with the ALA accreditation process.

For detailed information visit: www.cuny.edu/employment.html (Job #9136)

Completed application packets, including cover letter describing scholarly interests, curriculum vitae and 500 word essay addressing “Future Directions in LIS Education” must be submitted online, as one document. For additional information about application procedure, contact Dr. Colleen Cool at colleen.cool@qc.cuny.edu.

The City University of New York is an EO/AA Employer